

Hiday Custom Builders, LLC

In recent years, quality, character, efficiency, and craftsmanship have been pushed to the wayside as emphasis has been placed on cheap, big, standard, and fast. Long gone are the days where one company could complete a project from start to finish and still be committed and dignified enough to stand behind their work. The “standard” of yesteryear has become “unique” in today’s day and age and in the end, it’s the customer that is losing.

Fortunately for the customer, though, there are outfits like Hiday Custom Builders, LLC. Officially formed as a remodeling company in the summer of 2006, owners Bill Hiday and Justin Crawford are turning heads with their refusal to adhere to standard and status quo. While they’ve found a niche in Period Construction and other historic recreation work, they are also proponents of conventional building philosophies such as energy efficiency and the use of other “green” techniques. Whether it is a new custom home or the complete renovation of a historic structure, there may not be another builder out there that is able to marry old-school craftsmanship with modern technique quite the way HCB does.

Unlike most local building and remodeling contractors, Hiday and Crawford are usually on the jobsite with their tool belts on. They’ve found that working alongside their tradesmen ensures that no corners are cut and that no details are overlooked.

The pair also prides themselves on being the most customer-friendly outfit around. Regardless of generation and demographic, clients continually rave out how Hiday and Crawford are just a phone call, text, email or Facebook message away!

If your project deserves a “unique” level of service, Hiday Custom Builders, LLC is the builder that you want to work with. Check out their website; www.hidaycustombuilders.com , and look them up on Facebook!
