

Mike Geryak Construction

Mike Geryak worked for a general contractor during summers while in high school and while at Purdue University to fund his degree in Civil Engineering. In the end, he chose construction over his original career path. In 1988 he founded Mike Geryak Construction while still at Purdue and has been building and remodeling homes ever since.

“It has been a steady progression,” he says. “Every year has been better than the previous year and 2008 is going to be our best year ever. Hancock County has been a prosperous area for me. One job led to another. We worked off of our reputation over the years. I think every one of our customers has been 100-percent satisfied.”

Mike Geryak Construction enjoys the highest ranking on Angie’s List.

Originally the McCordsville-based company focused on remodeling. That changed in the mid ‘90s and its focus became new home construction. Today the pendulum has swung back to remodeling. The company specializes in major home expansions, with an average home expansion project of more than $150,000.

“We have a forte for bringing custom homes that have been built in the last 15 years back to life,” Mike says. “We specialize on high-end custom homes.” Homes typically range from $225,000-$425,000.

Mike Geryak Construction offers customers the expertise and precision of a truly well-educated and knowledgeable home-building professional who understands the process from bare dirt to the finished product.

“I am a hands-on builder,” he says. “I am on-site pretty much every day working with my guys. That’s what makes me happy.”
