It is our goal to make the building process enjoyable and stress-free, while maintaining your total satisfaction.

“Our mission is to do whatever it takes to please our clients,” says Robin Campbell, president of Indianapolis-based Rowe & Campbell, Inc. “This has led us into many directions including more efficient homes and green building.”

Partners Mark Rowe and Robin Campbell, who together have more than fifty years experience in the construction industry, founded the company in 2000.

Rowe & Campbell builds custom homes, low-maintenance empty-nester homes and additions in Central Indiana. New homes range in price from $200,000 to $1.2 million and additions from $25,000 to $400,000. Currently the company is building in the Ridges Over Brandywine in Greenfield.

Rowe & Campbell is certified to build Energy Star homes, and the company is known for the highest craftsmanship, quality and value. Customers who do not have an architect can opt for the company’s “Design & Build” contract, and Robin and Mark will design their home. “The software program we use has 3-D capabilities that allow clients to take a virtual tour of their home,” Robin says. “We can take my laptop and sit down in their living room and show them what it will look like to stand in their new living room. We can change out the paint colors, the bricks, the stones and other materials before we even start.”

Their referrals by past clients have opened doors to many new clients. Their experience allows them to take any size home or addition from conception to completion. And this comes with the personal touch of working daily with the owners of the company.
